

Ethical and Legal Aspects of Disaster Response
August 23-24, 2012

August 23rd Chat Transcript:

Siobhan Champ-Blackwell 2: Please remember to mute your phone

Barbara Folb: yes

Debra Cavanaugh: yes

patti reynolds: yes

Ann Sawusch: yes

patti reynolds: ok

Sam Howland: ok, mine is muted

Siobhan Champ-Blackwell 2: thanks Sam!

patti reynolds: who is going to speak first

jean lei: can't hear anything

Sam Howland: IS there any way Siobhan's audio can be increased? I can barely hear her.

Siobhan Champ-Blackwell 2: can people hear Patti

Siobhan Champ-Blackwell 2: i can hear her fine

Barbara Folb: i can hear you

Ann Sawusch: sounds fine to me

Ray Hetherington: yes

Kelly Harrison: I can hear

jean lei: can't hear anything

Margaret Hoogland: I can hear--I would check your phone settings!

Claire Joseph: i can hear you, thanks

jean lei: I put my phone number there but didn't get called.

jean lei: 209-569-7722

Bob Pringle, Spokane: I was intrigued to see in the NY Times article reference to nine different approaches to/definitions used in triage

Alicia: Yes there are many different approaches to triage. It can also differ by the population (eg, pediatrics).

Siobhan Champ-Blackwell 2: when you limit care to patients, that is very much an ethical action!

Siobhan Champ-Blackwell 2: and it's easy to make these decisions, until its your mom who is not getting the care!

Siobhan Champ-Blackwell 2: thanks for bring these up

Barbara Folb: That's true, ethics in the abstract are very different than when they are applied to you or your family.

Margaret Hoogland: Agreed--I think this is why it is important to have basic rules in place

Arletha Ford: Remember the director of nurses had a 246 page disaster plan that lacked any method of getting the people out of floor

Barbara Folb: Tomorrow we will do more comparing of clinical medical ethics and public health ethics.

Barbara Folb: Here's an example from the recent news on challenges in evacuation and the disabled during fires out in Colorado <http://www.gazette.com/news/fire-143208-waldo-canyon.html>

Ann Sawusch: Thanks so much!

Margaret Hoogland: Thank you!

Amy Donahue: Thank you!

Ray Hetherington: thank you

Claire Joseph: yes i think the Fink article was incrediblethank you

Arletha Ford: Thank you
gillian kumagai: thanks!
Claire Joseph: really thorough and fascinating info
Lynne Ferrell: thank you--your knowledge of this topic is most impressive. Lots of food for thought!!
Jackie Luizzi: Thank you!
Debra Cavanaugh: Thanks Patti!

August 24th Chat Transcript:

Ann Sawusch: ok...
Ann Sawusch: smiles.. good to hear about the software..
Siobhan Champ-Blackwell: Yes, Ann, that is a lesson all its own!
patti reynolds: how did you get the camera running?
Barbara Folb: I clicked on the button that looks like a video camera in the Camera and Voice box patti reynolds: you are so smart -- I did not do that Barbara Folb: Not smart, Siobhan told me how before - I just ask smart people
Ann Sawusch: Thats what librarians do!
Siobhan Champ-Blackwell: :-) as do all good librarians!
patti reynolds: thank you
Claire Joseph: thanks, siobhan!
Bill: introduction speaker was very garbled FYI
Bill: Barbara is very clear patti reynolds: thanks Bill
Claire Joseph: it's not letting me vote
Claire Joseph: ok i did Siobhan Champ-Blackwell: oh. good!
Alicia Livinski: is there a list somewhere of the states that have adopted parts of the Act?
Alicia Livinski: Thanks!
patti reynolds: this is a great resource. We use other plans a lot Arletha Ford: were there any laws inacted regarding the West Nile Virus?
Arletha Ford: thanks!
patti reynolds: I do not show a display of the votes
patti reynolds: now I do Siobhan Champ-Blackwell: thanks for sharing the Resource Guide!
Siobhan Champ-Blackwell: Alicia Livinski, on the call, is the ASPR libraian!
Siobhan Champ-Blackwell: librarian
Bill: Glad ASPR has a library/librarian.
patti reynolds: i do not see the voting results again - could you tell us what it says
patti reynolds: it came up late thanks Siobhan Champ-Blackwell: how appropriate!
patti reynolds: how funny good for you Barb
Sam Howland 2: I can't see the entire screen Amy Donahue: I can't, either...still not quite.
patti reynolds: disasters are local - need local legal advice
Alicia Livinski: Great job! Learned some new sources and tips!
Siobhan Champ-Blackwell: I agree, me too Alicia Jessica Cole: Thanks for sharing resources on the Moodle site!

Debra cavanaugh: Looks good.

Amy Donahue: This is great, thanks so much!

Ray Hetherington: Thank you

Debra cavanaugh: The link to the online evaluation was sent in the Important Information Email

patti Reynolds: great job Barbara

Sam Howland 2: Great presentation-thanks!

Ann Sawusch: Very clear thanks Barbara

gillian kumagai 2: thank you

Margaret Hoogland: Will we still have moodle access after today? This was really helpful, thank you!

Steven Hoeger: Thank you for the class and information the last two days.

Claire Joseph: Today & yesterday GREAT PRESENTATIONS

Debra cavanaugh: yes to the moodle question

Kelly Harrison: thank you!

Claire Joseph: so where do we go for CE

Margaret Hoogland: Thank you, Debra, Barbara, Patti, and Siobhan! This was great!

Lynne Ferrell: very interesting....you have extensive knowledge of this so am glad you shared. there are excellent site links in the presentation!

Ann Sawusch: Thanks!